SENATE WANTS 'STEEL' AND NOT 'PAPER' NAVY

NAVY FIGHT ON OVER COOLIDGE REQUEST MADE

ASKS THAT 3-YEAR TIME LIMIT PROVISION BE ELIMINATED

THUS DELAYING ACTUAL WORK OF CONSTRUCTION OF 15 CRUISERS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 17.—Thunderous echoes over the new naval cruiser bill and the Kellogg anti-war treaty sounded through capitol halls today as congress met for the concluding week of its pre-Christmas session.

The disputed cruiser bill was due to come up on the floor of the senate for discussion while the senate foreign relations committee met with the definite purpose of formulating a report to the senate on the 59 nation pact renouncing war as a means of settling international disputes.

The cruiser bill, carrying authorizations for 15 new 10,000 ton cruisers and an aircraft carrier to be built in the next three years at a cost of $174,000,000, was given first place on the republican program after the Hawes-Cooper prison labor bill.

The crux of the navy fight is over President Coolidge's request that the three-year time limit provision be eliminated, delaying actual work of construction. The senate has been almost unanimously in favor of what it chooses to call "a steel navy" instead of what it designates as Mr. Coolidge's "paper navy."

There is a report that the anti-war treaty will be pushed to supplant the naval bill. Peace organizations have been advocating such a plan. If the treaty is reported out by the foreign relations committee, any senator is empowered to move its consideration in place of the naval bill.

Indications point to a vote speedily on the treaty in the foreign relations committee. Chairman Borah has announced daily sessions will be held until a vote is obtained. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, author of the "unofficial reservations" resolution, has announced he wants a vote, too.

Republican leaders have planned to let the treaty be considered next after the naval cruiser bill and they have indicated they will prevent any attempt to sidetrack the cruiser measure.

ACHER, ATHLETE, NOW HOPELESS CRIPPLE FOR LIFE

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL PLAYER, HAS CHEERLESS XMAS

SHOT BY GANGSTERS IN NOVEMBER WHEN HIS CAR SCRAPED THEIRS

Chicago, Dec. 17.—(UP)—John C. Acher, Northwestern University football player, will spend Christmas at home in Fort Dodge, Ia.—a hopeless cripple.

Acher, celebrating with his brother on the night of Nov. 10, a football victory over Purdue, was shot by gangsters when his automobile scraped fenders with theirs. Acher was wounded in the spine and lost use of his legs. At times he remained alive only by his own will power, physicians said.

John's mother wanted her son at home, so yesterday John was put aboard an Illinois Central train.

At the station a delegation from his fraternity said goodby to him. Miss Peggy Eckles was there and gave him his dog, Chad, which she had kept since he was hurt.

Acher had been put into the line-up against Purdue and played most of the game. His brother, a student in a Missouri military academy and a member of its football team that also had won a game that day, joined John in a celebration. They borrowed an automobile and drove from Evanston into Chicago with two girls.

On their way back their car crashed with that of the gangsters. Without warning, the men shot and Acher was wounded in the back. The younger brother was not hurt.

PAY HOMAGE TO GENIUS OF TWO WRIGHTS

AT EXACT SPOT WHERE 25 YEARS AGO THEY MADE FLIGHTS

USED THEIR HEAVIER-THAN-AIR MACHINE AT KITTY HAWK, N. C.

By ALFRED P. RECK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17.—Into these rolling sand hills saturated with pioneering history, America's greatest aviation pilgrimage wended its way today to pay homage to the genius of two bicycle makers of Dayton, Ohio, at the exact spot where 25 years ago they were the first to fly in a heavier-than-air machine.

One of the men—Wilbur Wright—has been dead for 16 years. The other—Orville Wright—stood bareheaded on the slopes of Kill Devil Hill while hundreds of men prominent in the life of America and many foreign nations honored the two who opened a new era in history by 12 breath-taking seconds in the air.

It was the first time in 17 years that Orville Wright had returned to the scene of his great conquest. He heard himself and his beloved brother lauded as great Americans by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut. A huge granite boulder monument was unveiled in the spot where the first flight started. He listened to congratulations from foreign delegates to the International Civil Aeronautics conference. He stood with Capt. Bill Tate, of Coinjock, N. C., who had befriended the two brothers in their early and trying days of 1900 to 1903.

It was Mrs. Tate who sewed the cloth for the first Wright glider and it was Tate's daughters, Irene and Pauline, who afterwards wore dresses made from that same cloth when the glider was wrecked.

There were others who stood close by—sons of men who had watched the two brothers succeed in their early experiments. There were others like Capt. Tate, who had witnessed the first flight or who were in the vicinity when it happened. They recalled arguments of Elizabeth City and nearby stores and postoffices when some of the natives openly expressed their belief that man should not attempt to fly.

"God didn't intend man to fly," Capt. Tate recalled as one of the chief arguments. "If He did He would have given him a set of wings on his shoulders. No, siree, nobody need not try to do what God didn't intend for him to do."

When Capt. Tate defended the Wrights in the country store arguments he recalled that he was told he was a "darned sight crazier than the Wrights were."

But all of the ancient feelings were forgotten in the spontaneous overwhelming outburst of cordiality with which the people of the sand hills welcomed back the man who had brought so much fame to their community.

Previous to unveiling the granite memorial, a corner stone was laid for a huge national monument which will be erected by authorization of congress.

The pilgrimage was arranged by the International Civil Aeronautics conference in co-operation with the National Aeronautical association.

Bolivia Prepares Today to Accept Some Offer For Mediation of the Dispute With Paraguay

NEWS OF CAPTURE OF PARAGUAYAN FORTS RECEIVED

TENDS TO CALM RATHER THAN AGGRAVATE WAR-LIKE SPIRIT

FELT THAT BOLIVIA HAS THUS WIPED OUT SCORE WITH PARAGUAY

La Paz, Bolivia, Dec. 17—(UP)—Bolivia prepared today to accept some offer for mediation of the dispute with Paraguay.

News of the capture of Paraguayan forts in the Chaco district by Bolivian troops Friday tended to calm rather than aggravate the warlike spirit which has gripped the country since 34 Bolivians were killed at Fort Vanguardia Dec. 6. It is felt here that Bolivia has carried out her desire to revenge what she considers an assault on her national dignity and has wiped out that score with Paraguay.

A peaceful solution of the situation can be reached now, it is said.

The newspaper El Diario in an editorial today reflected the opinions of a large majority of the people. It said, "We believe that Bolivia is conscious of her obligations and her rights and will not go to war, but it is imperative that she go to negotiations with a high head after this great indignity."

News of the Bolivian successes in the Chaco region were enthusiastically received here. Flags were flown today throughout the city.

Yesterday thousands of persons turned out on the streets, clamoring for more details of the engagements. President Hernando Siles personally announced the details of the victory from the balcony of the presidential palace Saturday night.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 17. — Government circles here consider that the Bolivian -Paraguayan situation has reached a stage where the United States and Argentina must exert their utmost efforts to prevent an outbreak of war, it was said authoritatively today.

It was pointed out that Argentina is in an advantageous position for such arbitration because of her previous efforts to settle the border dispute at conferences here and that the United States is adapted to such a course because Secretary of State Kellogg is making an effort to conclude the anti-war treaty of which Bolivia is a signatory.

Comment in some circles here today connected the recent loan which Bolivia floated in the United States with Bolivia's purchases of armaments in Europe.

According to reports here, heavy shipments of arms have been passing through Argentina from Europe to Bolivia for some time.

The Villazon correspondent of the newspaper El Orden reported today that usual activity has taken place among Bolivian residents in La Quiaca after reports were received that a mobilization had been ordered from La Paz.

(By United Press)

Prospects increased today for a pacific settlement of the Bolivian-Paraguayan dispute in which nearly fifty soldiers have been killed in clashes during the last two weeks in the disputed Chaco region.

While Paraguay has mobilized her army, she also has accepted two offers of mediation, one by Argentina and one by the Pan-American arbitration and conciliation conference at Washington.

The situation in Bolivia, which was embroiled after the killing of 24 Bolivian troops at Fort Vanguardia on Dec. 6, has become more calm and it is possible that mediation may be accepted by that nation.

It is the general concensus, however, that if mediation is not mutually accepted, war is threatened momentarily.

Friday, Bolivia retaliated for the Paraguayan attack on Fort Vanguardia, by seizing the forts of Boqueron, Valios, General Senes, Goma and Mariscal Gomez.

Six Paraguayans and a considerable number of Bolivians are reported to have been killed. Several on each side were wounded. Paraguay has ordered mobilization. It is believed an open declaration of war may be made momentarily.

REBELLION HAS BROKEN OUT AGAIN IN AFGHANISTAN

Calcutta, India, Dec. 17. (U.P.)—Rebellion has broken out again in Afghanistan, advices received today said. Two important centers were involved and fighting was proceeding in the vicinity of Kabul, which may be affected.

The city was calm, although insurgent activity was reported near Nimla.

The foreign minister has returned from Jellalapad, where he negotiated successfully for support of the government by the important Mohamand tribe.

Moscow, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—A report from Kabul said rebels were attempting a new move toward the capital. Government troops engaged the rebels in the district north of the Kabul river.

HOOVER IN LAST STAGE OF GOODWILL TOUR

PARTY ARRIVED LAST NIGHT AT MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY

SECOND DEMONSTRATION ON BEHALF OF NICARAGUAN REBELS ENCOUNTERED

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 17. — President-elect Herbert Hoover began today the last stage of his Latin American goodwill tour.

The party arrived here last night on board the Argentine cruiser Buenos Aires from the Argentina capitol across the river. The arrival in Montevideo marked the first stop on the trip northward.

The second demonstration on behalf of the Nicaraguan rebels was encountered last night, when a group, variously estimated from 30 to 100 in the crowd before the government palace shouted "Viva Sandino."

Uruguay officials who were with the president-elect were greatly chagrined by the demonstration. Mounted police rode into the crowd. Several of the leaders were led away in handcuffs.

The Uruguayans were cordial in the general sentiment toward Mr. Hoover. The streets were packed with cheering throngs as he drove to government house with President Campisteguy. After the formal exchange of greetings at government house, Mrs. Hoover and Senora Campisteguy went together to the Parque hotel.

Later Mr. Hoover, President Campisteguy and Minister of War General Mondozany Duran, drove to the Parque hotel to join Mrs. Hoover and Senora Campisteguy.

The American president-elect radioed President Hipolito Irigoyen from the Argentine cruiser Buenos Aires. He said that he carried away with him the highest impression of the Argentine and its peoples. He said Argentina has reached the heights in all fields of human progress.

KING GEORGE IS ABLE TO TALK A LITTLE

HAS ASKED REPEATEDLY FOR HIS TWO ABSENT SONS

KING SLEEPS FAIRLY WELL, GOES 24 HOURS WITHOUT SEDATIVE

By CLIFFORD L. DAY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 17—The king is able to talk a little and has asked repeatedly for his two absent sons.

An intimate description of the king and scenes in his sickroom was obtained by the United Press today from a reliable source.

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued by King George's physicians at Buckingham Palace shortly before noon today said:

"The king had a fair night with some natural sleep toward morning. The slight improvement in the condition noted yesterday continues."

The "slight improvement" to which the bulletin referred was first noted after an application of ray therapy treatment yesterday. The monarch passed a fairly comfortable night, the United Press was informed at 6 A. M. today.

In connection with the bulletin's mention of natural sleep, it was said to be the first time in his illness that the king had passed 24 hours without a sedative.

A meeting of the new council of state, named to act for the king during his illness, was held at Buckingham palace this morning.

The Prince of Wales was at the palace during a consultation of the doctors this morning. Sir Hugh Rigby, the surgeon who operated on the king last Saturday, joined in the consultation.

The ray therapy treatment probably will be applied to the king again this evening.

The natural sleep which the king had was regarded as the most important feature of today's bulletin. It was regarded as extremely beneficial in the circumstances and likely to help the king regain some strength.

The "slight improvement" has been recorded in three consecutive bulletins covering the last 36 hours. While the advance is only slight, it at least indicates the king is on the upgrade.

It was announced officially shortly before 3 P. M. this afternoon that the "slight improvement" in the king's condition continued.

TWO GIRLS FOUND DEAD, HEADS CRUSHED, DRESSES TORN OFF

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 17. — (U.P.) — Carefully placed within a few feet of each other at the side of the Annapolis roads, two young girls today were found dead, their heads crushed and their dresses torn off.

The girls were identified at a Glenburnie morgue as Maria Stolba, 16, and Thelma Vlak, 15, who live in the same block of Sixth street extendent, Anne Arundel county. They had been missing for twelve hours.

Police believe they were the victime of either a hit and run driver or of a criminal attack. An examination for evidence of the latter will be made by the coroner later today.

It was taken for granted at first that they had been struck by an auto, but further investigation failed to uncover anything to substantiate that theory.

A search of the road for several hundred yards showed no traces of blood or broken glass. Neither did the road show marks of automobile brakes suddenly applied nor any traces of torn clothing.

BRINGS HEAVY SNOW AFTER DRIZZLING RAIN

UNSETTLED WEATHER WITH LOWER TEMPERATURES IS FORECAST

FAIR WEATHER, HOWEVER, EXPECTED TO RETURN TUESDAY

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Winter returned to parts of the southwest today, bringing heavy, wet snow that followed a period of drizzling rains.

Although unsettled weather was forecast today with lower temperatures, fair weather was expected to return Tuesday.

When the muddy waters of the swollen Big Fossil creek washed the motor car from the road near Fort Worth, Texas, last night, Mrs. John Janacek and her two children, Alfred, 5, and Joe 2 were drowned.

Snow which blanketed southwest Kansas was placing the highways in bad condition today. Rain turning to snow was reported in the Texas Panhandle.

In sections the snow had reached a depth of five inches.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF WIFE AND BOARDER

St. Paul, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—Samuel Nicosia, 45-year-old grocer, confessed slayer of Mrs. Nocosia, 40, and Patrick Elfe, 45, today was to be formally charged with first degree murder. Mrs. Nicosia and Elfe were shot to death Saturday afternoon after a quarrel which Nicosia said was caused by the attentions of Elfe paid to Mrs. Nicosia.

'CEMETERY BANDIT' SOUGHT BY POLICE

St. Paul, Dec. 17. — (U.P.)—The "cemetery bandit" was sought by police here today after, for the second time in two weeks, a taxi cab driver was held up in Oakland cemetery by a passenger. Owen Goff reported that during the week end he was robbed of a small sum of money in the same manner a fellow driver was robbed two weeks ago.

TWICE A WIFE AND ONCE MOTHER

DENVER GIRL, 17 YEARS OLD, HAS MISFORTUNES FOLLOW BY ALLEGED KIDNAPING

Denver, Colo., Dec. 17. — (U.P.)—Twice a wife without an intervening divorce, and once a mother, is the record police yesterday set down for Margaret Evans Arthur, 17 years old, following an alleged kidnaping of the girl by her first husband, Alex J. Evans.

Evans was reported to have made an early morning raid on the house where his wife was living with her second husband, Elmer Arthur, a hotel bellboy, and abducted the girl, clad only in a bathrobe and nightgown. Arthur made only a faint remonstrance, but he called the police.

A few hours later Margaret returned to her second love, and told police the kidnaping was only "a playful prank of my cousin." Not satisfied by the girl's glib story, the officers began an investigation which revealed the child-wife's erratic career.

She was married to Evans in 1926 when she was 14 years old. They have a 13-month old child.

A few months after the birth of the child, Margaret told her husband she wanted a vacation. She was still on her "vacation" when Evans learned she had married Arthur a month ago.

Margaret considers herself justified in taking a second husband. The baby, now in a day nursery, doesn't seem to worry her.

"I know lots of girls who have done this," she told police. "I love Arthur. He's the only man I ever loved. I want to live with him always."

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 17.—An official bulletin issued by King George's physicians at Buckingham Palace shortly before noon today said:

"The king had a fair night with some natural sleep toward morning. The slight improvement in the condition noted yesterday continues."

The "slight improvement" to which the bulletin referred was first noted after an application of ray therapy treatment yesterday. The monarch passed a fairly comfortable night, the United Press was informed at 6 A. M. today.

In connection with the bulletin's mention of natural sleep, it was said to be the first time in his illness that the king had passed 24 hours without a sedative.

A meeting of the new council of state, named to act for the king during his illness, was held at Buckingham palace this morning.

The Prince of Wales was at the palace during a consultation of the doctors this morning. Sir Hugh Rigby, the surgeon who operated on the king last Saturday, joined in the consultation.

The ray therapy treatment probably will be applied to the king again this evening.

The natural sleep which the king had was regarded as the most important feature of today's bulletin. It was regarded as extremely beneficial in the circumstances and likely to help the king regain some strength.

The "slight improvement" has been recorded in three consecutive bulletins covering the last 36 hours. While the advance is only slight, it at least indicates the king is on the upgrade.

It was announced officially shortly before 3 P. M. this afternoon that the "slight improvement" in the king's condition continued.

TWO GIRLS FOUND DEAD, HEADS CRUSHED, DRESSES TORN OFF

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 17. — (UP) — Carefully placed within a few feet of each other at the side of the Annapolis roads, two young girls today were found dead, their heads crushed and their dresses torn off.

The girls were identified at a Glenburnie morgue as Maria Stolba, 16, and Thelma Vlak, 15, who live in the same block of Sixth street extendent, Anne Arundel county. They had been missing for twelve hours.

Police believe they were the victime of either a hit and run driver or of a criminal attack. An examination for evidence of the latter will be made by the coroner later today.

It was taken for granted at first that they had been struck by an auto, but further investigation failed to uncover anything to substantiate that theory.

A search of the road for several hundred yards showed no traces of blood or broken glass. Neither did the road show marks of automobile brakes suddenly applied nor any traces of torn clothing.

BRINGS HEAVY SNOW AFTER DRIZZLING RAIN

UNSETTLED WEATHER WITH LOWER TEMPERATURES IS FORECAST

FAIR WEATHER, HOWEVER, EXPECTED TO RETURN TUESDAY

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Winter returned to parts of the southwest today, bringing heavy, wet snow that followed a period of drizzling rains.

Although unsettled weather was forecast today with lower temperatures, fair weather was expected to return Tuesday.

When the muddy waters of the swollen Big Fossil creek washed the motor car from the road near Fort Worth, Texas, last night, Mrs. John Janacek and her two children, Alfred, 5, and Joe 2 were drowned.

Snow which blanketed southwest Kansas was placing the highways in bad condition today. Rain turning to snow was reported in the Texas Panhandle.

In sections the snow had reached a depth of five inches.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF WIFE AND BOARDER

St. Paul, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—Samuel Nicosia, 45-year-old grocer, confessed slayer of Mrs. Nocosia, 40, and Patrick Elfe, 45, today was to be formally charged with first degree murder. Mrs. Nicosia and Elfe were shot to death Saturday afternoon after a quarrel which Nicosia said was caused by the attentions of Elfe paid to Mrs. Nicosia.

'CEMETERY BANDIT' SOUGHT BY POLICE

St. Paul, Dec. 17. — (U.P.)—The "cemetery bandit" was sought by police here today after, for the second time in two weeks, a taxi cab drive was held up in Oakland cemetery by a passenger. Owen Goff reported that during the week end he was robbed of a small sum of money in the same manner a fellow driver was robbed two weeks ago.

TWICE A WIFE AND ONCE MOTHER

DENVER GIRL, 17 YEARS OLD, HAS MISFORTUNES FOLLOW BY ALLEGED KIDNAPING

Denver, Colo., Dec. 17. — (U.P.)—Twice a wife without an intervening divorce, and once a mother, is the record police yesterday set down for Margaret Evans Arthur, 17 years old, following an alleged kidnaping of the girl by her first husband, Alex J. Evans.

Evans was reported to have made an early morning raid on the house where his wife was living with her second husband, Elmer Arthur, a hotel bellboy, and abducted the girl, clad only in a bathrobe and nightgown. Arthur made only a faint remonstrance, but he called the police.

A few hours later Margaret returned to her second love, and told police the kidnaping was only "a playful prank of my cousin." Not satisfied by the girl's glib story, the officers began an investigation which revealed the child-wife's erratic career.

She was married to Evans in 1926 when she was 14 years old. They have a 13-month old child.

A few months after the birth of the child, Margaret told her husband she wanted a vacation. She was still on her "vacation" when Evans learned she had married Arthur a month ago.

Margaret considers herself justified in taking a second husband. The baby, now in a day nursery, doesn't seem to worry her.

"I know lots of girls who have done this," she told police. "I love Arthur. He's the only man I ever loved. I want to live with him always."

CHICAGO MAN SLAYS HIS WIFE

INJURES HIS LITTLE SON, THEN BELIEVED TO HAVE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Chicago, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—As police sought James McCullough, 39, today for the murder of his wife, Arthur McCullough, 9, his son, lay near death in the county hospital here, moaning in delerium, "don't hit me again, daddy."

Out of a job, his money and home gone, McCullough beat his wife, Anna, to death with a poker and injured his son Arthur, an invalid, so seriously he probably will die. McCullough then fled. Police believed he has committed suicide.

Mrs. McCullough was an expectant mother.

Saturday night McCullough returned to the mortgaged home with the news that he had lost his job, and the home must go.

Early yesterday, James, 10, another son was awakened by a noise. He hopped out of bed and found his father wiping blood from Arthur's head in the bathroom.

"Go back to bed, Arthur's sick again," James said his father told him.

James went back to bed but could not sleep. He heard his brother crying and again went to the bathroom.

"I'll get a doctor," McCullough told James and left in his old automobile.

Arthur was unconscious. James went to arouse his mother and found her dead, her skull crushed.

Chicago, Dec. 17. — (U.P.)—Arthur McCullough, nine-year-old crippled boy, died in the county hospital today, the victim of his father's madness. Police expressed the belief that James McCullough, the father, committed suicide following his disappearance after he killed his wife and fatally injured Arthur yesterday.

PENNEY COMPANY IN EXPANSION PROGRAM FOR 1929

The J. C. Penney Co., operators of 1,078 retail department stores will negotiate 500 leases for new store locations this sprisg for stores to be opened as rapidly as store units can be developed in a special expansion move just authorized by the board of directors. This expansion will involve an increase in retail sales of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 over the present rate of around $190,000,000 a year. The store locations will be confined to cities and towns of from 2,500 to 5,000 population.

"The decision of the board of directors to authorize this new store movement comes largely as a result of a national demand from the smaller towns for J. C. Penney Co., stores and service," says Earl C. Sams, president.

Following the established policy of the J. C. Penney Co., managers for the new locations will be selected from the present store personnel.

Early in 1928, the J. C. Penney Co., announced that a new warehouse would be erected in St. Louis, Mo., and this new structure is now nearing completion. It will be utilized to serve the company stores in the south and the southwest. The present warehouse in New York City will serve the eastern section of the country.

According to Mr. Sams, it is expected that nearly all of the new store towns will be selected and that stores will be opened by September of 1929.

Dr. A. F. Groves received word today that his brother, F. W. Groves and son were on the steamer Kroonland sailing from Great Britain to America, when she was disabled during a terrific gale while 300 miles out. They were taken aboard the Fastnet.

Art Lagerquist came in from Superior last night to spend the holidays with his mother.

Walter Allen is expected home from Fargo next week to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen. He is attending college at Fargo.

J. C. Canan left today for the coast where he expects to spend the winter. He says he may be back in the spring unless he finds something in the way of employment out there that is to his liking.

The Hills bakery building which stood on the corner of Main and Ninth for so many years has been bought by the Martin Shear and Clipper company and is being moved to the rear of the present headquarters of the company.

There was rather spectacular runaway this morning on Sixth street south. A team of horses belonging to a farmer and being driven by a young man, went pell mell up the street and they were given the right of way by everyone. They turned east on Maple street and the driver was thrown off the sleigh, but was not hurt.

Superintendent Hartley in making his report for the schools in the city, states that this report is the best that has ever been made in the history of the schools. The report showed an average daily attendance of 1,981 pupils during the last month.

Death called H. J. Hagadorn last night about 8 o'clock, after a lingering illness with Bright's disease. He has been a resident of Brainerd for 23 years, and is well known. His business is that of a millwright.

HUGE SUM SPENT TO ADVERTISE CIGARETS

New York, Dec. 17.—One of the largest newspaper advertising appropriations ever devoted to a single product will be spent by the American Tobacco Company in 1929 to promote the sale of Lucky Strike cigarettes. George W. Hill, president of the company, announced today that next year's direct advertising budget for its principal brand of cigarettes will total $12,300,000. This sum does not include sales or trade expenses.

More than half of this entire appropriation will be allotted to newspapers. It will include practically every daily in the United States. The newspaper appropriation will be more than double the next largest allotment, which is for outdoor advertising, and more than ten times as great as the amount that will be spent for radio broadcasting in which the company is a pioneer.

The $12,300,000 appropriation will include:

Daily newspapers	$ 6,500,000
Magazines	1,200,000
Billboards	3,000,000
Store helps	1,000,000
Radio	600,000
	$12,300,000

"This division of our advertising budget," Mr. Hill said today, "is based on the continued experience of the American Tobacco Compnay with large scale advertising which has satisfactorily demonstrated that newspapers offer the most effective medium of appeal.

Roxana Changes Name to Shell Petroleum Corporation

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 17.—U. de B Daly, president of the company heretofore known as the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, has announced that his board of directors has approved a change in the corporate name to Shell Petroleum Corporation.

The name "Roxana" has been in use since the organization of the company in 1917, when offices were opened in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Headquarters were removed to St. Louis in 1920 and since 1925 have occupied large space in the Shell building owned by the corporation.

Since 1923, when the marketing of Shell gasoline, Shell motor oil and other Petroleum products under the Shell trade-mark was inaugurated, the name "Shell" has become so popular and so closely identified with the corporation itself that the name "Roxana" has gradually lost its significance. A change in the firm style to correspond with the trade name of its products has therefore been made.

The Tee-Pee Oil Co. of Brainerd Minn., are distributors of Shell petroleum products in this territory.

WHY MINNESOTA MAY THANK IOWA

VOTERS of Iowa seem to have done Minnesota a good turn when they voted in favor of a bond issue of $100,000,000 for good roads purposes, or, to be more accurate, for road-paving purposes, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

Iowa voters ratified the bond proposal with an emphasis that almost indicated they were eager to have a chance to do so, and that is not so absurd as it may sound to many. Iowans have had sorry and costly experiences with bad roads. The very soil that makes their corn grow tall is poor stuff out of which to make dependable year-around roads. Voting for the bond issue was the rational reaction to floundering in roads with motor cars. It was a popular mandate that Iowa should be yanked out of the mud and set upon paved highways.

But how has that served a good purpose for Minnesota? Well, the $100,000,000 Iowa bond issue makes the $20,000,000 bond issue long desired by Commissioner Babcock seem a puny thing, comparatively and actually. It has provoked a loud press chorus in Minnesota for the much smaller bond issue proposed in this state. What Minnesota editors have written in the last few weeks on this subject suggests that the Minnesota legislature would come in for little or no censure, if it exercised the authority granted it to issue bonds to facilitate improvement of the state trunk highway system.

It is quite evident that the Iowa verdict has done much to influence this phase of the Minnesota press comment. The Minnesota editors are not heedless of the fact that a half dozen years hence, when the Iowa program shall have been carried out, that state will have in paved roads about five-sevenths of the entire mileage now comprised in the Minnesota state trunk highway system. Without the bond issue, Minnesota probably would be worse off in terms of efficient roads six years hence than it is today. It could scarcely be otherwise, seeing how car registrations are going up, how tragic burdens are increasing, and how maintenance expenditures are increasingly eating up road revenues.

The adoption of Amendment No. 1 gave Minnesota road users something serious to think about, and the Iowa election mandate has helped to set the situation out in sharp relief in the collective Minnesota mind. Let it be borne in mind that good paved roads through Iowa willl help in the development of our tourist industry according as we build attractive and dependable trunk roads of our own.

GOODWILL WILL COME HANDY

A LITTLE show of goodwill on both sides ought to settle the war cloud now hovering over Bolivia and Paraguay. The trouble centers over a boundary line dispute, and these, like the line fence fights of farmers, are cause of much ill feeling.

A disinterested commission should be able to conciliate both sides and bring back harmony. Just at a time when the Kellogg peace pact and anti-war treaty is gaining adherents all over the world, these two South American republics have to take the bull by the horns and start up real warfare, for to date 50 soldiers have been killed in clashes in the disputed Chaco Region.

Argentina has offered to mediate and the Pan-American Arbitration and Conciliation Conference at Washington has offered its machinery for the settlement of the dispute. The League of Nations Council called the attention of Bolivia and Paraguay to the fact that they hold league membership and have subscribed to certain principles which rely on diplomacy and not war to settle their dispute.

Mr. Hoover, in his goodwill tour of South America, will gain a first hand view of the trouble and the information will enable him to deal with the situation, should it still be existent after March 4 next year.

HONORS COME SLOWLY

IT does appear that sometimes a man has to be dead a long while before his worth is recognized. Take, for instance, the Wright Brothers who invented the plane which made the momentous flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., 25 years ago.

Newspapers at that time paid little attention to the epoch-making feat. Wilbur died a prophet without honor in his own bailiwick and Orville remains to be the belated recipient of honors for the two brothers.

While Lindbergh gained instant recognition as a New York to Paris flier, the Wrights, who made possible such a flight by their pioneer investigations, have been in the background until now. It's no wonder the Wrights felt piqued and sent the old model to England for preservation.

SPORTS AT THE UNIVERSITY

BASKETBALL, hockey and indoor track have drawn record turnouts this year at the University of Minnesota. The Gopher varsity basketball quint is rounding into shape for its most strenuous season in several years. The appearance of Fred Hovde, quarterback of football fame, has added greatly to the hopes of Minnesota followers. Minnesota's defeat at the hands of North Dakota was attributed to some extent to Hovde's absence from the lineup on account of injuries.

Over 100 candidates have entered competition for places on the varsity team and 170 freshmen are trying out for the yearling basketball quint and 75 track athletes have answered the call to practice by Coach Sherman Finger.

IN YULETIDE DRESS

YOU may scan the rotagravure pictures of St. Paul and Minneapolis street decoration signifying the advent of the holiday season, but Brainerd, proportionally has decorations which also symbolize the spirit of the season and cause visitors to be attracted by the gallant showing made.

Friday night the lights were turned on and the festoons of red, blue and green lights strung across streets of the business section gave the town a real glow of welcome.

A MAN writes a bridge expert asking what he ought to do with a wife who trumps two of his aces in a single evening, says the Baudette Region. He ought to be patient with her. Aside from taking her outside and shooting her he oughtn't to do anything about it.

"As Ye Have Done" by Blanche Tanner Dillin

THE softly falling snow held for Marion Ainsworth no beauty as she waited shivering with the cold for a bus which would undoubtedly be late. She sighed at thought of the ten-mile ride before her.

Christmas was very near, but there was no Christmas spirit in Marion's heart. With no member of her family nearer than an aunt, her father's sister-in-law whom she had not heard of for over five years, the coming holidays held little prospect of joy for her. The present days were busy ones with the usual mid-year work of teaching school, with examinations and Christmas entertainments. Never did she long for a real home and loved ones as at this season of the year.

Remembrances of Christmases came to her and at the thought that this year would probably be spent alone in her room, her eyes filled with tears.

So engrossed was she with these thoughts she failed to notice a small dog, travel stained, foot sore and weary, looking beseechingly at her.

At first sight of him with an exclamation of pity she stooped and tenderly petted him. At this kindness the dog crept close to her and remained so until the bus came.

As Marion stepped on to the bus the dog followed, so she hastily gathered him up in her arms. Assured that everything was all right, he settled down in her lap for a nap. This gave Marion a chance to study him. She decided he was a fox terrier, although it was difficult to tell in his present unkempt condition. As he wore a collar and license tag it was evident he was a pet, especially as the name

Secretly Hoping It Was No One to Claim the Dog.

"Horatius" was on the collar. Such an imposing name for such a small dog brought a smile to Marion's lips. Around his neck was a bit of frayed rope, so he probably had been stolen.

So interested was she planning how she would care for him and what steps to take to restore him to his owners, that she had reached home before she realized it.

The affectionate little fellow soon won a place of welcome, both in Marion's and Mrs. Lane's (her landlady) hearts, and soon proved in watchful care and faithfulness that he had well earned the name he bore.

Christmas eve Marion's heart was lighter than for years, as she thought with gratitude of the joy the little dog, now freshly bathed and with a new bow on his collar, lying asleep at her feet, had brought her.

During the evening a caller was announced, and Marion went down the stairs, secretly hoping it was no one to claim the dog.

As she went forward to greet the caller, the lady came toward her with a smile and outstretched hand, and then stopped short. "Marion!" she exclaimed. "Aunt Ethel!" exclaimed Marion.

Then followed the exchange of happenings of the last five years, in which Marion had lost her mother, and how the information had not reached her aunt until her return from a long journey, many months after. She had searched unavailingly for her niece, and Marion then explained that she had sought new scenes and faces hoping in that way to ease the loneliness. Then followed the account of the finding of the dog, and her aunt's account of the loss of her pet, which had been stolen from her home in a distant city. She had heard some one at that address had found a dog and hoped it might be hers, and so it proved to be.

As both were alone in the world, Marion's aunt persuaded her to make her home with her as a daughter; and urged her to resign from her position as soon as possible.

A few days later as Marion sat in her new home, so comfortably and beautifully cared for, she held the little dog close to her. "You blessed giver of good things," she whispered. "How anything so wee could bring so much happiness?" And back came the inaudible message "As ye have done to the least of these."

The COMMUNITY TREE

By MARTHA BANNING THOMAS

THIS is the story they tell in a village by the sea: It was rather a small village, and not a very rich village, and most of the people who lived there were fishermen and their families.

At Christmas time a young girl decided that they must be up to date and have a community tree. It took a deal of talking and wheedling and getting around old people who could see no sense in it. But at last the necessary money was raised . . . all but a few dollars. The young girl decided to go to a cross old captain who was never known to give anything to anybody, except ill-natured replies.

The girl used all her art to persuade him. He said it was a waste of money and electricity and had no sense to it. "I wouldn't give a penny," he growled, "not if every man and woman in the town begged me on their knees. Foolishest goins' on ever I heard."

But the young girl was not discouraged. She had set her heart on having the tree. Finally she managed to raise the required amount.

The tree stood straight and tall on a high hill overlooking the sea. It blazed with light and was very beautiful. Everyone admired it except the captain.

Christmas eve there came a sudden storm of wind and snow. But shining through the flakes gleamed the lighted tree. The captain's son, Roger, had gone to the next village on business. On the way home his car broke down. He was compelled to walk. Weary and spent he finally arrived at his home. The captain's face was lined with anxiety.

"Thought ye were lost," he said; "what's been the trouble?"

Roger related his experiences, and then said, "The storm grew so bad that I almost gave up. I could hardly tell where I was. It was hard to walk. Then I saw the Christmas tree . . . and that was the one thing that led me home."

Let the Christ-Child In

By L. D. STEARNS

NEARLY two thousand years ago, on the Judean hills, a band of shepherds listened to the first Christmas song. In the spangled heavens radiance burst like flame as the music broke across the silent night. It does not require a great deal of imagination to picture their stern, rugged features changing from swift amazement into adoration and solemnity as the strange light grew brighter and more far-reaching—the music more jubilantly sweet. The streets filled quickly with hurrying throngs.

"Bless the Lord, O, my soul!" chanted the holy men.

"On earth peace; good will toward men," rang from the sky.

"What means it?" some one cried.

"Unto you a Child is born. Unto you a King is given," came in answer from the Heavenly Host.

Slow—majestically—the Star moved across the heavens until it paused above a manger where a new-born infant lay, a soft, unearthly radiance lighting all the place.

Wise men knelt with gifts of gold and frankincense and myrrh. Rich and poor—wise and simple—old and young—bowed beneath that holy light on the first Christmas eve, so long ago.

Today, throughout the entire Christian world, the song still rings. Whatever the place or style of Christmas celebration, back of it sounds the triumphant cry—"Peace and good will! Unto you a King is given!" As it reaches once more to the individual hearts of the world shall not understanding and sympathy and kindly faith replace harshness and intolerance, fanning gently into deeper glow the mystic light that is shedding Christmas cheer?

According to an old legend the Christ-Child wanders abroad each Christmas eve with a bundle of evergreens on His shoulder. Through rain or sleet — garments ragged — feet bruised and torn—He is pictured traversing village and town seeking aid and homely cheer. A candled window signified His welcome within. Aid rendered any beggar was counted as hospitality offered the Christ. As the old and new merge again into one may brotherly love, radiating clearly and far, proclaim, even as the shining candle of old, "The Christ-Child may come in!"

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WHY MINNESOTA MAY THANK IOWA

VOTERS of Iowa seem to have done Minnesota a good turn when they voted in favor of a bond issue of $100,000,000 for good roads purposes, or, to be more accurate, for road-paving purposes, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

Iowa voters ratified the bond proposal with an emphasis that almost indicated they were eager to have a chance to do so, and that is not so absurd as it may sound to many. Iowans have had sorry and costly experiences with bad roads. The very soil that makes their corn grow tall is poor stuff out of which to make dependable year-around roads. Voting for the bond issue was the rational reaction to floundering in roads with motor cars. It was a popular mandate that Iowa should be yanked out of the mud and set upon paved highways.

But how has that served a good purpose for Minnesota? Well, the $100,000,000 Iowa bond issue makes the $20,000,000 bond issue long desired by Commissioner Babcock seem a puny thing, comparatively and actually. It has provoked a loud press chorus in Minnesota for the much smaller bond issue proposed in this state. What Minnesota editors have written in the last few weeks on this subject suggests that the Minnesota legislature would come in for little or no censure, if it exercised the authority granted it to issue bonds to facilitate improvement of the state trunk highway system.

It is quite evident that the Iowa verdict has done much to influence this phase of the Minnesota press comment. The Minnesota editors are not heedless of the fact that a half dozen years hence, when the Iowa program shall have been carried out, that state will have in paved roads about five-sevenths of the entire mileage now comprised in the Minnesota state trunk highway system. Without the bond issue, Minnesota probably would be worse off in terms of efficient roads six years hence than it is today. It could scarcely be otherwise, seeing how car registrations are going up, how tragic burdens are increasing, and how maintenance expenditures are increasingly eating up road revenues.

The adoption of Amendment No. 1 gave Minnesota road users something serious to think about, and the Iowa election mandate has helped to set the situation out in sharp relief in the collective Minnesota mind. Let it be borne in mind that good paved roads through Iowa willl help in the development of our tourist industry according as we build attractive and dependable trunk roads of our own.

GOODWILL WILL COME HANDY

A LITTLE show of goodwill on both sides ought to settle the war cloud now hovering over Bolivia and Paraguay. The trouble centers over a boundary line dispute, and these, like the line fence fights of farmers, are cause of much ill feeling.

A disinterested commission should be able to conciliate both sides and bring back harmony. Just at a time when the Kellogg peace pact and anti-war treaty is gaining adherents all over the world, these two South American republics have to take the bull by the horns and start up real warfare, for to date 50 soldiers have been killed in clashes in the disputed Chaco Region.

Argentina has offered to mediate and the Pan-American Arbitration and Conciliation Conference at Washington has offered its machinery for the settlement of the dispute. The League of Nations Council called the attention of Bolivia and Paraguay to the fact that they hold league membership and have subscribed to certain principles which rely on diplomacy and not war to settle their dispute.

Mr. Hoover, in his goodwill tour of South America, will gain a first hand view of the trouble and the information will enable him to deal with the situation, should it still be existent after March 4 next year.

HONORS COME SLOWLY

IT does appear that sometimes a man has to be dead a long while before his worth is recognized. Take, for instance, the Wright Brothers who invented the plane which made the momentous flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., 25 years ago.

Newspapers at that time paid little attention to the epoch-making feat. Wilbur died a prophet without honor in his own bailiwick and Orville remains to be the belated recipient of honors for the two brothers.

While Lindbergh gained instant recognition as a New York to Paris flier, the Wrights, who made possible such a flight by their pioneer investigations, have been in the background until now. It's no wonder the Wrights felt piqued and sent the old model to England for preservation.

SPORTS AT THE UNIVERSITY

BASKETBALL, hockey and indoor track have drawn record turnouts this year at the University of Minnesota. The Gopher varsity basketball quint is rounding into shape for its most strenuous season in several years. The appearance of Fred Hovde, quarterback of football fame, has added greatly to the hopes of Minnesota followers. Minnesota's defeat at the hands of North Dakota was attributed to some extent to Hovde's absence from the lineup on account of injuries.

Over 100 candidates have entered competition for places on the varsity team and 170 freshmen are trying out for the yearling basketball quint and 75 track athletes have answered the call to practice by Coach Sherman Finger.

IN YULETIDE DRESS

YOU may scan the rotagravure pictures of St. Paul and Minneapolis street decoration signifying the advent of the holiday season, but Brainerd, proportionally has decorations which also symbolize the spirit of the season and cause visitors to be attracted by the gallant showing made.

Friday night the lights were turned on and the festoons of red, blue and green lights strung across streets of the business section gave the town a real glow of welcome.

A MAN writes a bridge expert asking what he ought to do with a wife who trumps two of his aces in a single evening, says the Baudette Region. He ought to be patient with her. Aside from taking her outside and shooting her he oughtn't to do anything about it.

"As Ye Have Done" by Blanche Tanner Dilliy

THE softly falling snow held for Marion Ainsworth no beauty as she waited shivering with the cold for a bus which would undoubtedly be late. She sighed at thought of the ten-mile ride before her.

Christmas was very near, but there was no Christmas spirit in Marion's heart. With no member of her family nearer than an aunt, her father's sister-in-law whom she had not heard of for over five years, the coming holidays held little prospect of joy for her. The present days were busy ones with the usual mid-year work of teaching school, with examinations and Christmas entertainments. Never did she long for a real home and loved ones as at this season of the year.

Remembrances of Christmases came to her and at the thought that this year would probably be spent alone in her room, her eyes filled with tears.

So engrossed was she with these thoughts she failed to notice a small dog, travel stained, foot sore and weary, looking beseechingly at her.

At first sight of him with an exclamation of pity she stooped and tenderly petted him. At this kindness the dog crept close to her and remained so until the bus came.

As Marion stepped on to the bus the dog followed, so she hastily gathered him up in her arms. Assured that everything was all right, he settled down in her lap for a nap. This gave Marion a chance to study him. She decided he was a fox terrier, although it was difficult to tell in his present unkempt condition. As he wore a collar and license tag it was evident he was a pet, especially as the name

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TO DECIDE ON HOW TO AWARD TUNNEY-MULDOON TROPHY

COMMITTEE IS FROM HIGHEST SOCIAL REGISTER

TROPHY IS GENE'S LEGACY TO THE GAME HE LEFT BEHIND HIM

DESIGNED TO DRAPE TUMMY OF NEXT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

(United Press Sports Editor)
By FRANK GETTY

New York, Dec. 17.—A committee of gentlemen whose names are better known to the social register and to Dun and Bradstreet than to the rosters of fistiana will meet today to decide upon the rules under which the Tunney-Muldoon trophy is to be awarded.

This trophy is Gene Tunney's legacy to the game he left behind him, and is designed to drape the tummy of the next heavyweight champion, if any.

The ex-champion arranged that the decision as to his successor be entrusted to a group of society men and financiers, including Gene's social sponsor, Bernard Gimbel, and others among Tex Rickard's "600 millionaires."

Tex is concerned entirely with the financial aspects of the affair, and is quite willing to leave its social aspects to the gentlemen of Gene's choice. What the promoter wishes to have understood thoroughly by any aspirants for the trophy is that no guarantees are to go along with an invitation to participate for the championship.

Rickard is still paying for the last heavyweight championship fight, which cost him and his backers more than $500,000. The only reason that the Tunney-Heeney affair lost money, of course, was because the promoter had guaranteed the champion and challenger more than the final attendance warranted.

This time, Tex intends there shall be no such mistake. He has been driven to economy measures at Madison Square Garden which sadden him.

The blazing electric signboard which formerly spelt out the triumphs and attractions sponsored by the Garden has been darkened, at a saving of $90,000 per annum. The personnel of Rickard's sports palace has been reduced radically.

Right now the Garden is making about $20,000 weekly on boxing alone, but that is "chicken feed" compared with the big money of Jack Dempsey's title battles.

And beside Tex doesn't like the uncouth persons who attend the shows, sometimes throwing banana peels at the ushers and attendants who now are dressed in formal attire.

FOUND GUILTY OF SLAYING SALESMAN

Tucumcari, N. M., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Leroy James of Cheyenne, Okla., today was found guilty of second degree murder for the slaying of Wenkle Schmidt, traveling salesman for a St. Louis brewery, here last August. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The shooting occurred in the Vorenberg hotel here after James Hazel Francis of Cheyenne in Schmidt's room. James and the woman had been living as man and wife in the same hotel, testimony showed. The state contended the pair tried to work a "badger game" on the St. Louis man. When James drew a revolver and threatened Schmidt the latter grappled for the weapon and was shot in the abdomen.

FIRST LEGION GAME WEDNESDAY

TEAM TO WORK OUT TONIGHT IN PREPARATION FOR GAME AT DEER CREEK

The Travelling Legionnaires will work out tonight at the Lum Park pavilion in the final practice before the opening game of the season on Wednesday evening at Deer Creek.

The practice will get under way at 7:30 o'clock.

Games arranged by Manager Lester Peterson to date follow:

Dec. 19—Deer Creek at Deer Creek.
Dec. 22—Biwabik at Biwabik.
Jan. 1—Morris at Morris.
Jan. 3—Moose Lake at Barnum.
Jan. 8—Milaca at Milaca.

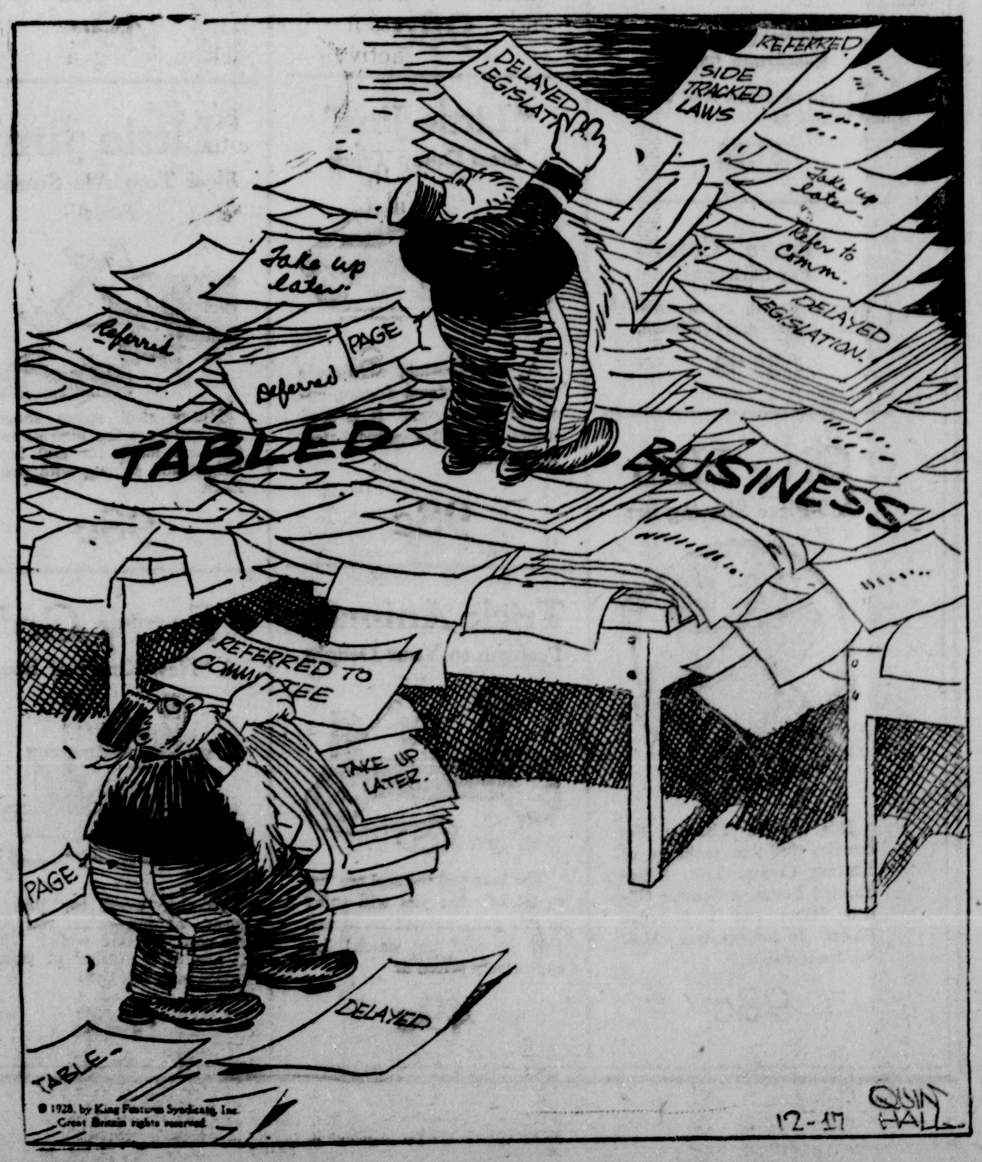

Causes of Storms.

Electrical storms are generated by sudden or sharp changes in atmospheric temperature. Since the upper atmosphere is always cold, such changes are much less frequent in winter, when the temperature near the earth is also low. Hence, thunder and lightning are much more frequent in summer than in winter.

ANOTHER CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

A Christmas Gift for Detroit

By QUIN HALL.

WHEN it comes to something to hang on the Christmas tree at Detroit, the baseball fans of the motor city would probably be tickled pink if Santa Claus were to give them a clear title to the American League championship in 1929. But since clear titles to these honors are not available until after the regular season, the fans of Detroit will have to be satisfied with the knowledge that in "Bucky" Harris, the Tigers' newly-acquired pilot, the speed town has a manager who has a hankering to grab a bunting in his first year at Detroit.

Of course, "Bucky's" signature has been on a Detroit contract for some time, but that shouldn't deter the Tiger fans from accepting the former Washington pilot as a Christmas gift. Anyway, "Bucky" will have to be accepted in lieu of a flag at least until after next Summer.

Young Mr. Harris, who is not yet 32, has already rolled up his sleeves and started the ball rolling by announcing that most of the jobs on the Detroit Club for next season are as wide open as any of these small towns just over the Mexican border. Gehringer is said to be a fixture at the keystone corner and while "Bucky" has doped a paper line-up into shape, the Tiger machine is sure to be in for a lot of tinkering during the Spring training trip.

With Gehringer set in solid at the center corner — Harris' own stamping ground — it looks very much as if "Bucky" would manage the Tigers from the bench, although he may decide to take over the hot corner. Warner, who guarded the third sack for the Tigers last season, was turned over to the Senators in part payment for Harris and there is no one, barring "Bucky," on the Detroit payroll to fill his shoes. It is therefore possible that Harris will be seen in a playing role and the fans of Detroit are anxious to see him in action every day.

The new pilot is especially enthusiastic over a number of Tiger recruits. Prudhomme, late of Toronto, is expected to strengthen the Detroit pitching staff considerably. In the International League race this year Prudhomme looked out of place with the minors and Harris anticipates that he will be a big success in the majors. Roy Johnson, $75,000 outfielder, of San Francisco, is another recent acquisition over whom "Bucky" waxes optimistic. Johnson looks like a sure starter in the outer garden next Spring, with Jonathan Stone, a heavy hitting bush leaguer, who broke in with the Tigers last August, also seemingly a sure bet. Harris plans to start Ernie Rice in the center garden.

Heilmann may play the initial corner next year if he can hit and field better than Dale Alexander of Toronto, who will get a whirl at the job. Otherwise the famous clouter may be on the bench. The shortstop job will rest between Schubel and Tavenor, with the former having the edge for the regular berth. McManus will be retained on third base unless "Bucky" decides to take over the hot corner assignment.

Harris came into major league baseball when he joined the Washington Senators in 1919 from Buffalo as a second-sacker. He was appointed manager of the Senators in January of 1924 and in his first year at the helm he finished first in the American League and beat the Giants in the World Series. He repeated in his own league in 1925, but failed to win the big Fall classic.

But in Harris the Tigers have a hustling manager—a fellow who is going to try to give Detroit a winning club. He's confident the team can finish well up in the list, and he'll be working all season to put it right on top of the heap. A tough task, but not an impossible one.

HYPOTHETICAL CASE OF REAL GANG VENGEANCE

MURDER OF YOUNG ITALIAN AND WIFE IN NEW YORK PARTLY CLEARED UP

AUTHORITIES START SEARCH FOR SUSPECT IN CRIME

New York, Dec. 17.—(UP)—The murder of a young Italian and his wife was partly cleared up today as police pieced together a hypothetical case of gang vengeance and started a search for one suspect.

The bodies of Soro Graziano and his wife, Mary, 18, were found on Saturday at Franklin Square, Long Island. Both had been shot to death. The bodies were near a deserted bungalow on the outskirts of Franklin Square.

The clue was furnished by relatives of the slain couple who said Mrs. Graziano had once told them: "If anything ever happens to me or Soro, look for Pliers."

County detectives have identified "Pliers" as Frank Plaia, who was indicted with Graziano and Thomas Cirrone as members of a gang that held up the Thom McCann shoe store on July 7.

Plaia was acquitted, but Cirrone was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment. Graziano was never brought to trial.

The Grazianos had been married eighteen months.

HYPOTHETICAL CASE OF REAL GANG VENGEANCE

MURDER OF YOUNG ITALIAN AND WIFE IN NEW YORK PARTLY CLEARED UP

AUTHORITIES START SEARCH FOR SUSPECT IN CRIME

New York, Dec. 17.—(UP)—The murder of a young Italian and his wife was partly cleared up today as police pieced together a hypothetical case of gang vengeance and started a search for one suspect.

The bodies of Soro Graziano and his wife, Mary, 18, were found on Saturday at Franklin Square, Long Island. Both had been shot to death. The bodies were near a deserted bungalow on the outskirts of Franklin Square.

The clue was furnished by relatives of the slain couple who said Mrs. Graziano had once told them: "If anything ever happens to me or Soro, look for Pliers."

County detectives have identified "Pliers" as Frank Plaia, who was indicted with Graziano and Thomas Cirrone as members of a gang that held up the Thom McCann shoe store on July 7.

Plaia was acquitted, but Cirrone was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment. Graziano was never brought to trial.

The Grazianos had been married eighteen months.

Is the WRINGER really obsolete?

WILL the modern woman continue to slowly feed clothes... piece-by-piece... through an old-fashioned wringer, when the EASY Wringerless Washer will whirl the water from a whole tubful of clothes in less than two minutes?

Just watch a woman as she slowly feeds clothes through the ordinary wringer . . . wringing out piece-by-piece, first, the soapy water . . . then the rinse water . . . and finally the blue water. A total of 300 or more laborious hand operations for the average family washing!

Then watch the modern woman as she quickly transfers her clothes, altogether, from the washing tub to the drying compartment of the EASY Damp-Dryer. A flip of a lever and, in less than two minutes, the soapy water is whirled from the entire tubful. In the same way she handles the rinsing and bluing operations.

No more torn clothes

No more buttons off

And how the EASY Wringerless Washer does save clothes! No more torn clothes. No more buttons off. No strain on fabrics; no cracking of silk or rayon garments; no stretching nor distorting of blankets and woolens.

Removes more water, too, and drying in the sun is quicker. Evenly damp and free from deep, hard creases, the clothes are easier to iron. Feather pillows, blankets and bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer are easily handled.

Washes like human hands

Famous for its gentle washing action, the EASY Vacuum Cup Principle has never been equaled.

Up and down and around . . . sixty-six times a minute . . . its three vacuum cups move. Like human hands, they cleanse away every particle of dirt and grime.

Speedy, because it does two things at one time. Eight full-size sheets, or their equal, are washed in the wash tub, while eight other sheets are quickly dried in the drying tub. Clothes are on the line earlier. Youarelesstired.

No more buttons off

A built-in gas heater provides plenty of hot water. At the touch of a lever, the EASY pumps itself dry . . . into drain or sink.

There are still EASY Washers with wringers . . . good, efficient machines equipped with every known safety device. But no wringer-equipped machine, not even our own, can compare with the EASY Model R, with automatic Damp-Dryer.

Week's washing done free

Simply call us. We will bring the new EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing clothes. You can own an EASY on easy terms, with low monthly payments.

Is the WRINGER really obsolete?

WILL the modern woman continue to slowly feed clothes... piece-by-piece... through an old-fashioned wringer, when the EASY Wringerless Washer will whirl the water from a whole tubful of clothes in less than two minutes?

Just watch a woman as she slowly feeds clothes through the ordinary wringer . . . wringing out piece-by-piece, first, the soapy water . . . then the rinse water . . . and finally the blue water. A total of 300 or more laborious hand operations for the average family washing!

Then watch the modern woman as she quickly transfers her clothes, altogether, from the washing tub to the drying compartment of the EASY Damp-Dryer. A flip of a lever and, in less than two minutes, the soapy water is whirled from the entire tubful. In the same way she handles the rinsing and bluing operations.

No more torn clothes

No more buttons off

And how the EASY Wringerless Washer does save clothes! No more torn clothes. No more buttons off. No strain on fabrics; no cracking of silk or rayon garments; no stretching nor distorting of blankets and woolens.

Removes more water, too, and drying in the sun is quicker. Evenly damp and free from deep, hard creases, the clothes are easier to iron. Feather pillows, blankets and bulky pieces which will not go through a wringer are easily handled.

Washes like human hands

Famous for its gentle washing action, the EASY Vacuum Cup Principle has never been equaled.

Up and down and around . . . sixty-six times a minute . . . its three vacuum cups move. Like human hands, they cleanse away every particle of dirt and grime.

Speedy, because it does two things at one time. Eight full-size sheets, or their equal, are washed in the wash tub, while eight other sheets are quickly dried in the drying tub. Clothes are on the line earlier. Youarelesstired.

No more buttons off

A built-in gas heater provides plenty of hot water. At the touch of a lever, the EASY pumps itself dry . . . into drain or sink.

There are still EASY Washers with wringers . . . good, efficient machines equipped with every known safety device. But no wringer-equipped machine, not even our own, can compare with the EASY Model R, with automatic Damp-Dryer.

Week's washing done free

Simply call us. We will bring the new EASY to your home and show you a miracle in washing clothes. You can own an EASY on easy terms, with low monthly payments.

The SAFE EASY WASHER

Also supplied with built-in 4-cycle gasoline motor for homes without electricity

Peaks of Desire

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and she is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and Steve goes into the trucking business. Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's, appears on the scene. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her, but Steve denies this, saying he does not love Maizie. Ann and Steve leave Maizie in Jerry's room, and he takes her home. One day Jerry phones Ann at the theatre to reserve two tickets for Saturday night. After the show Steve and Ann join Maizie and Jerry and have supper at a cheap restaurant. Later, they go to a dance hall. Jerry admits to Ann that the party was a failure, saying he had hoped Maizie would enjoy it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLI.

THE days passed. Ann worked hard at the theatre but there was always in her mind a little uneasy expectation of the coming Saturday night. She had told Jerry that it was ridiculous to make up a pleasure party after the theatre to include Maizie and Steve but she had reluctantly agreed to his plan. Steve, when she mentioned the idea to him, was, unexpectedly, delighted.

"You need a little fun and amusement," he said. "If people would ease up a little more and be friendlier all around there wouldn't be so much unhappiness in this old world."

He had meant to be philosophical and profound; Ann was touched with pity and sympathy for him. He was like a great awkward boy trying to appear an experienced authority on life. Somewhere in his giant being, thought and intelligence were beginning to struggle, were penetrating inside into the machinations of humanity.

The last of her social prejudices was going by the board. Never before had she realized how many snobbish inhibitions had clustered to her life like barnacles to ships. To appear in public as social equals with people like Steve Harrison and Maizie Thompson would have been unthinkable but a few weeks ago. Now she was seeing with clearer vision; Steve and Maizie were human beings like herself, struggling to find the light. All of them—she included Jerry in this—were ignorant about different things. If Maizie weren't quite proper according to Ann's old standards, it was not the girl's fault. Questions of ancestry, education and wealth made the difference—but, perhaps, her soul was of the same material as Ann's was; no doubt Maizie had precisely the same human capacity for joy and suffering. Ann wondered if she were becoming a Socialist and Bolshevist—maybe in some far distant era there would be an actual and equal brotherhood of man . . .

The four of them gathered around a table in a moderately priced neighborhood restaurant after the show. She had never seen Jerry in such a light-hearted mood; he had always seemed so serious and cynical but tonight he was buoyantly happy.

"Did you like our show?" she asked him across the table.

"Oh, great! Maizie and I enjoyed every minute of it—didn't we?"

"You said it," the girl responded.

Ann, sitting beside Steve, could feel him regarding Maizie with an odd approval. Strange, how difficult it was for men to conceal what was in their minds . . . An involuntary telepathy of feeling . . . Undeniably, there was now about Maizie some evasive aura of improvement, even as there was about Steve . . .

Ann's feminine eye picked up a few details about Jerry's companion. There was less rouge on her face, she had a new cheap dress, but it was somehow quieter. The blond hair was still frizzed, but not so aggressive. Maizie was still, definitely, the factory girl type, even though unmistakably toned down.

Most remarable of all, however, was the apparently complete extinction of her uncontrolled emotional attachment for Steve and the corresponding resentment against Ann. What painful relics remained in Maizie's heart Ann had no means of knowing. Perhaps none. Or, she might have been hiding behind a calm shell. Ann realized how impossible it was for her to understand the girl completely.

They had sandwiches and coffee and ice cream but Jerry's good spirits were not sufficient to bring an amalgamation of genuine and unrestrained gayety to the table. Maizie was a bit stiff and self-conscious; Steve, too. He was always awkwardly in trouble with his knife and fork or else the spoon rattled in his saucer. They ate with a hungry kind of excitement during which Ann and Jerry, by a mutual and unspoken agreement, kept alive the semblance of a general conversation. The talk was all about the play but every one's interest smacked of artificiality; the waiter brought the check to Jerry but Steve insisted on splitting it. They combined coins and left a generous tip for the waiter. It was a little after 11 o'clock when they finished.

The Rose Bower dance hall found them together a half hour later. The rollicking jazz band tooted and blared while a hundred couples slid over the polished floor under the softly colored lights. At $1 a head anyone who was hungry for rhythm and movement, and the contact of the opposite sex was admitted. All of the faces were fresh and young, the bodies pliant and elastic.

Ann, sitting beside Steve, could feel him regarding Maizie with an odd approval.

A muscular arm surrounded Ann as she moved easily out onto the floor with Steve. He held her too loosely, as though he were afraid of her and, athlete though he was, she was surprised to find that he had little of the instinctive grace that makes a good dancer. Dancing with him was a serious effort and he was totally silent.

Sometimes she would catch a glimpse of Jerry and Maizie; Jerry danced with a man-of-the-world kind of nonchalance that was entirely free of any trickiness and Maizie followed him with an elastic ease of much practice and natural grace. In Ann's eyes they were the best dancers on the floor and beyond a doubt Jerry was the only man who had a touch of that distinction that belonged to her old world. Once, for politeness' sake, they traded partners and Ann observed Steve was still self-conscious as he plowed around with a slightly aloof Maizie.

"Are you having any fun?" Jerry asked her.

"Of course not," she told him. "It's pretty terrible isn't it? I suppose we might as well break up and go home," he agreed. "I'm sorry, though—for Maizie's sake. I wanted her to have a good time."

(To be continued.)

Prince on Last Lap of Race

Here is Prince George, youngest son of King George and Queen Mary of England, going up gangplank of the Cunarder Berengaria in New York after a race from Bermuda abord H. M. S. Durban. He will reach home a few days ahead of his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, who is en route to London from Capetown, South Africa.

Starting the Hardest.

The hardest thing is starting work. In the time we fiddle around before getting under way we might have the most difficult job half done. Things are rarely as hard to do as we think they are going to be. We suffer most in anticipation. It's really fear that keeps us from starting. The water's fine when we get in. The least pain comes when we plunge. The wind is coldest when we dawdle on the bank. —Capper's Weekly.

Mean Brute.

The meanest brute is the husband who has the morning paper sent to the office so his wife won't get a chance to see what bargains are being advertised for the day.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hard to Satisfy.

Those who are very difficult in choosing wives seem as if they would take none of nature's ready-made works, but want a woman manufactured particularly to their order.—Hawthorne.

Smart Lady.

An Atchison woman always has spending money. Twice a week she threatens to go back to her mother, and her husband always gives her enough money for train fare.—Atchison Globe.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee. —Advt.

Zonite

For Cuts and Wounds

Prevent infection! Treat every cut, wound or scratch with this powerful non-poisonous antiseptic. Zonite actually kills germs. Helps to heal, too.

To Check Flu-Grip

Fight the Germs with Vapors Before They Can Get a Start

Treat All Colds Promptly But Be Careful Not to Disturb the Digestion With Too Much Dosing

While Flu is so prevalent everyone should take precautions to prevent its further spread. Flu is generally accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs, and aching joints. But it begins so many times with just an ordinary cold.

Too often, the colds are neglected until they have lowered the vitality and permitted the lurking germs of influenza, or pneumonia to "get a foothold."

The only safe plan is to attack a cold at the very start. A hot bath, a laxative, and a vigorous application of Vicks VapoRub on the throat and chest at bedtime, will usually break up a cold overnight.

External Treatment Best

For hours after Vicks is applied, its ingredients, time tested remedies, such as camphor, menthol, eucalyptus, thyme and turpentine, are vaporized by the warmth of the body, and inhaled right to the inflamed air passages.

At the same time, the ointment acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" tightness and pain, and helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Avoid Upsetting Stomach

This simple external treatment cannot disturb your digestion as too much "dosing" is so apt to do. This is doubly important when "flu" is around, for your stomach, as well as your respiratory organs, must be kept in good condition in order to keep your body resistance at its highest level.

For this reason, too, mothers prefer Vicks for children. It can be used freely and often, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

To Help Ward Off the Flu

When influenza colds are prevalent, you can often prevent infection by snuffing a little Vicks well up the nostrils every night and morning, or before exposure to crowds.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and she is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and Steve goes into the trucking business. Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's, appears on the scene. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her, but Steve denies this, saying he does not love Maizie. Ann and Steve leave Maizie in Jerry's room, and he takes her home. One day Jerry phones Ann at the theatre to reserve two tickets for Saturday night. After the show Steve and Ann join Maizie and Jerry and have supper at a cheap restaurant. Later, they go to a dance hall. Jerry admits to Ann that the party was a failure, saying he had hoped Maizie would enjoy it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLI.

THE days passed. Ann worked hard at the theatre but there was always in her mind a little uneasy expectation of the coming Saturday night. She had told Jerry that it was ridiculous to make up a pleasure party after the theatre to include Maizie and Steve but she had reluctantly agreed to his plan. Steve, when she mentioned the idea to him, was, unexpectedly, delighted.

"You need a little fun and amusement," he said. "If people would ease up a little more and be friendlier all around there wouldn't be so much unhappiness in this old world."

He had meant to be philosophical and profound; Ann was touched with pity and sympathy for him. He was like a great awkward boy trying to appear an experienced authority on life. Somewhere in his giant being, thought and intelligence were beginning to struggle, were penetrating inside into the machinations of humanity.

The last of her social prejudices was going by the board. Never before had she realized how many snobbish inhibitions had clustered to her life like barnacles to ships. To appear in public as social equals with people like Steve Harrison and Maizie Thompson would have been unthinkable but a few weeks ago. Now she was seeing with clearer vision; Steve and Maizie were human beings like herself, struggling to find the light. All of them—she included Jerry in this—were ignorant about different things. If Maizie weren't quite proper according to Ann's old standards, it was not the girl's fault. Questions of ancestry, education and wealth made the difference—but, perhaps, her soul was of the same material as Ann's was; no doubt Maizie had precisely the same human capacity for joy and suffering. Ann wondered if she were becoming a Socialist and Bolshevist—maybe in some far distant era there would be an actual and equal brotherhood of man . . .

The four of them gathered around a table in a moderately priced neighborhood restaurant after the show. She had never seen Jerry in such a light-hearted mood; he had always seemed so serious and cynical but tonight he was buoyantly happy.

"Did you like our show?" she asked him across the table.

"Oh, great! Maizie and I enjoyed every minute of it—didn't we?"

"You said it," the girl responded.

Ann, sitting beside Steve, could feel him regarding Maizie with an odd approval. Strange, how difficult it was for men to conceal what was in their minds . . . An involuntary telepathy of feeling . . . Undeniably, there was now about Maizie some evasive aura of improvement, even as there was about Steve . . .

Ann's feminine eye picked up a few details about Jerry's companion. There was less rouge on her face, she had a new cheap dress, but it was somehow quieter. The blond hair was still frizzed, but not so aggressive. Maizie was still, definitely, the factory girl type, even though unmistakably toned down.

Most remarable of all, however, was the apparently complete extinction of her uncontrolled emotional attachment for Steve and the corresponding resentment against Ann. What painful relics remained in Maizie's heart Ann had no means of knowing. Perhaps none. Or, she might have been hiding behind a calm shell. Ann realized how impossible it was for her to understand the girl completely.

They had sandwiches and coffee and ice cream but Jerry's good spirits were not sufficient to bring an amalgamation of genuine and unrestrained gayety to the table. Maizie was a bit stiff and self-conscious; Steve, too. He was always awkwardly in trouble with his knife and fork or else the spoon rattled in his saucer. They ate with a hungry kind of excitement during which Ann and Jerry, by a mutual and unspoken agreement, kept alive the semblance of a general conversation. The talk was all about the play but every one's interest smacked of artificiality; the waiter brought the check to Jerry but Steve insisted on splitting it. They combined coins and left a generous tip for the waiter. It was a little after 11 o'clock when they finished.

The Rose Bower dance hall found them together a half hour later. The rollicking jazz band tooted and blared while a hundred couples slid over the polished floor under the softly colored lights. At $1 a head anyone who was hungry for rhythm and movement, and the contact of the opposite sex was admitted. All of the faces were fresh and young, the bodies pliant and elastic.

Ann, sitting beside Steve, could feel him regarding Maizie with an odd approval.

A muscular arm surrounded Ann as she moved easily out onto the floor with Steve. He held her too loosely, as though he were afraid of her and, athlete though he was, she was surprised to find that he had little of the instinctive grace that makes a good dancer. Dancing with him was a serious effort and he was totally silent.

Sometimes she would catch a glimpse of Jerry and Maizie; Jerry danced with a man-of-the-world kind of nonchalance that was entirely free of any trickiness and Maizie followed him with an elastic ease of much practice and natural grace. In Ann's eyes they were the best dancers on the floor and beyond a doubt Jerry was the only man who had a touch of that distinction that belonged to her old world. Once, for politeness' sake, they traded partners and Ann observed Steve was still self-conscious as he plowed around with a slightly aloof Maizie.

"Are you having any fun?" Jerry asked her.

"Of course not," she told him. "It's pretty terrible isn't it? I suppose we might as well break up and go home," he agreed. "I'm sorry, though—for Maizie's sake. I wanted her to have a good time."

Prince on Last Lap of Race

Here is Prince George, youngest son of King George and Queen Mary of England, going up gangplank of the Cunarder Berengaria in New York after a race from Bermuda abord H. M. S. Durban. He will reach home a few days ahead of his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, who is en route to London from Capetown, South Africa.

Starting the Hardest.

The hardest thing is starting work. In the time we fiddle around before getting under way we might have the most difficult job half done. Things are rarely as hard to do as we think they are going to be. We suffer most in anticipation. It's really fear that keeps us from starting. The water's fine when we get in. The least pain comes when we plunge. The wind is coldest when we dawdle on the bank. —Capper's Weekly.

Mean Brute.

The meanest brute is the husband who has the morning paper sent to the office so his wife won't get a chance to see what bargains are being advertised for the day.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hard to Satisfy.

Those who are very difficult in choosing wives seem as if they would take none of nature's ready-made works, but want a woman manufactured particularly to their order.—Hawthorne.

Smart Lady.

An Atchison woman always has spending money. Twice a week she threatens to go back to her mother, and her husband always gives her enough money for train fare.—Atchison Globe.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee. —Advt.

To Check Flu-Grip

Fight the Germs with Vapors Before They Can Get a Start

Treat All Colds Promptly But Be Careful Not to Disturb the Digestion With Too Much Dosing

While Flu is so prevalent everyone should take precautions to prevent its further spread. Flu is generally accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs, and aching joints. But it begins so many times with just an ordinary cold.

Too often, the colds are neglected until they have lowered the vitality and permitted the lurking germs of influenza, or pneumonia to "get a foothold."

The only safe plan is to attack a cold at the very start. A hot bath, a laxative, and a vigorous application of Vicks VapoRub on the throat and chest at bedtime, will usually break up a cold overnight.

External Treatment Best

For hours after Vicks is applied, its ingredients, time tested remedies, such as camphor, menthol, eucalyptus, thyme and turpentine, are vaporized by the warmth of the body, and inhaled right to the inflamed air passages.

At the same time, the ointment acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" tightness and pain, and helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Avoid Upsetting Stomach

This simple external treatment cannot disturb your digestion as too much "dosing" is so apt to do. This is doubly important when "flu" is around, for your stomach, as well as your respiratory organs, must be kept in good condition in order to keep your body resistance at its highest level.

For this reason, too, mothers prefer Vicks for children. It can be used freely and often, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

To Help Ward Off the Flu

When influenza colds are prevalent, you can often prevent infection by snuffing a little Vicks well up the nostrils every night and morning, or before exposure to crowds.
